The next step in quality-oriented care

For healthcare organisations, it is becoming increasingly important to determine how patients actually benefit from treatments, as insight into treatment outcomes and patient experiences helps improve healthcare processes and align them more closely with individual needs. Unfortunately, manual methods and fragmented data make it difficult to recognise trends and respond in time, which is why a digital solution that automatically collects patient data, presents it clearly and securely links it to systems can make targeted improvement possible.

Comprehensive digital outcome measurement

PROMs is a versatile digital solution for collecting, monitoring and processing patient data. Healthcare professionals use validated questionnaires via email, the Patient Journey platform or other systems. The data is processed automatically and made available instantly in clear reports and dashboards.

Intelligent monitoring and signaling

The tool supports smart monitoring by generating alerts for unusual scores or changes in a patient's health status. This enables healthcare providers to respond promptly and adjust care where necessary. Reference values and trend analyses help identify patterns and improve the quality of care.

Integration and recognisable design

PROMs easily connect with EPRs, registries and data warehouses via HL7. The environment can be fully customised in the organisation's own branding, ensuring familiarity and ease of use.
